Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the application filed 11/28/2003.
2. Claims 1-2 have been examined and are pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grant U.S Patent No. 7,043,566 in view of Jennings U.S Patent No. 7,191,244.

As to claim 1, Grant teaches an event management system for managing event notifications between disparate systems (Figs. 1 and 5, line 43 column 4 to line 7 column 5, lines 5-53 column 7) comprising a means to capture event notifications from any external system or device capable of generating an event notification (retrieving event data from plurality of members, lines 1-2 column 4, Fig. 1, line 43 column 4 to line 7 column 5);

a means to process said event notifications through a multitude of user-configurable settings (event data are processed based on user's settings via a user interface, Figs. 3a and 3b, lines 19-48 column 6);

a means to deliver said event notifications to any internal or external system or device capable of receiving an event notification (distributing event data to plurality of members, lines 10-25 column 4);

a means to facilitate lateral communication between the device that generated an event notification and a device that received it (event notification communication between members, Fig. 5, line 5 column 7 to line 25 column 8; ...by subscribing for events from event sources, the event consumer will be notified once the events occur..., lines 26-63 column 8);

a means to permanently record the details of an event notification and its life within the system for any purpose (storing the logged events for the purpose of viewing different data types concurrently, lines 7-10 column 4, lines 1948 column 6).

Grant does not explicitly teach recording for the purpose of auditing. Jennings teaches a system of collecting occurred events and storing these events in logs for the purpose of auditing (lines 13-21 column 12, lines 1-7 column 13). It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person of ordinary skill in the art to have modified Grant reference to include the teachings of Jennings reference because by storing and auditing the events, the system could produce reports regarding the occurred events within the system as disclosed by Jennings (lines 6-21 column 12).

As to claim 2, Grant as modified further teaches assignment of event notification paths between event-generating devices and event-receiving devices are applied in a static manner (communication paths between members of the system are defined, Figs. 1-2 and 4-5 and associated specifications).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
